CURRENT COMMENT

AT LA Prairie Sir Wilfrid Laurier is reported to have said that if any charges of scandal were made against members of his government or party and proved, the guilty one would be punished when his guilt was established and no effort would be made to shield such one.

How Sir Wilfrid Laurier must have laughed in his sleeve when he made this statement. He knew and well he knew that rather than offend the most degraded order the government winked at the infamies of all description. It is well for Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Hon. Frank Oliver to draw their legs round themselves and strut the platform in smug self-satisfaction with their followers "Look at these men; they lead clean decent lives." Of course they do, God bless Canada! But that is not the man leads a respectable life should be so rare that a seat in the ministry can be obtained on that recommendation alone. But even on the standard of morality, the low degraded standard that permits a man to associate with his kind has not the Laurier administration fallen to a depth that was never plucked by a government before. Is not the roadside along which the Laurier government has travelled strewn with moral lepers who have been detected, publicly exposed and in answer to public clamor cast out? It is well for Sir Wilfrid to say pretty things at Dapshire. What did he do to Dr. Pringle? No wonder President Robin in his eloquent address last night spoke of "the infamies of the Yukon where vice reigned the street under the protection of the law." Month after month, year after year, Dr. Pringle pleaded privately, pleaded eloquently and pleaded personally with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Oliver to stamp out the infamies that were receiving official assistance and example in the Yukon. What steps did either Sir Wilfrid or Mr. Oliver take in the matter?—none! They merely shrugged their shoulders. More, Mr. Oliver's personal organ came out with an editorial justification and quoted Mr. Kipling's statement "single men in barracks don't grow into plaster suits" with evident glee. It approved of Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Oliver when they refused to alter an administration which the London Times had characterized as a "disgrace to the flag." And yet Sir Wilfrid says at La Prairie that if charges were made and proved "no effort would be made to shield anyone." What a travesty of facts! He and Mr. Oliver have protected Gilmour and promoted Lithgow. And these are not the only men who have been rewarded for their misdeeds. What about Joseph Nixey, Philip Wagner (Mr. Oliver's pet), W. J. Doherty, W. T. R. Preston, J. B. Jackson, R. B. A. Leach, and the rest of those who have found financial promotion, the sure success of political crookedness. The whole thing is nauseating. Sir Wilfrid's rattling of the dry bones will deceive no one. The facts are these: The government knows that they cannot hope to attract a decent independent vote. They know that these only hope lies in this hidebound and the keeper and they dare not take one step that would jeopardize a vote.

TRIBUNE TRUMPS.

Just two weeks from today.

Signs of an election—increased in the drunk docket at the police court.

Ho, T. M. Daly says Sifton is the corruptor of the Liberal party. He is only one of them.

There is only one way to smash RAD GOVERNMENT. That is by SMASHING the men responsible for it.

"It is as a Grit that I ask you to give your support to Mr. L. Sifton."

A deliverance by the Premier of Canada. It hardly seems credible, does it.

The man the gratifiers have to fear is the cool-headed citizen who isn't saying much, but who will go quietly to the blizzard box two weeks from today and drive a nail in the coffin of the Timbre Limb organization.

The fact that men grow angry in the present political campaign is not a bad sign. If some thief came along and stole your winter's wood pile, would be time to get angry. Members of parliament have stolen the people's timba limits. Why shouldn't the people feel angry.

"An organized group at Ottawa controls Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier "has commenced public life." He is conducting a dollar and cents campaign. This dollar is for the promoters and the cents are for the people.

"A large proportion of the expenditure is simply taking money out of one pocket and putting it in the other."—Sir Richard Cartwright.

Exactly, but the other pocket is the pocket of the grafter.

The debating society of the Bide College school, Sunderland, have rejected by thirty-five to fifteen votes the motion that "this house regrets the existence of the 'Scottish nation'." This fortunate result has rendered the addition of the Scottish nation unnecessary.

Sir Richard Cartwright in his Toronto speech said:

"Sir, I tell you, Canada needs statesmen as well as politicians, and not grafters and wirepullers."

Right you are, Sir Richard.

Sir Richard is charged with fawning $5000 worth of Laurier Election Literature." Under what heading would Sir Richard Cartwright put that little transaction?

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN ELSE WHERE.

U (Tribune).

If Theodore Burrows, Clifford Sifton and J. G. Turill were candidates in an English, Irish or Scotch constituency, what would happen?

Would they not be repudiated by every party of decency?

They would not receive one hundred votes apiece in the most populous districts in any of those countries.

If the trio lived in the United States and declared themselves Republicans and friends of President Roosevelt, what would happen?

Mr. Roosevelt would repudiate them in the name of decency in government.

William Jennings Bryan, Democratic candidate for president, would not only repudiate them if they posed as Democrats; he would denounce them. He had fired out men of much greater talent, and more respectability during the past few days because some suspicion was attached to their conduct in matters not half so serious as those in which this western trio have been implicated.

Why are Canadians so blind to quality in public men?

Let every eye be damp with tears, Let every cheek grow pale, For Dan McGillivuddy's pinched, And is released on bail.

Why did the Law's majestic hand Descend upon that collar? And why did Dan go peacefully, And never make a bollee?

Ah, true, is the tale, my friends, With phanna one cheek is ruddy, To think that any common cog Could take McGillivuddy.

PREMIER ROBLIN'S TRIUMPH

time for the meeting, but he had found it packed to the doors with fifteen thousand people, and he was unable to gain an entrance. Mr. Roblin had already obtained an entrance with his party. It was suggested that an overflow meeting be held, and he went to Victoria Hall, Thornton he went back to Massey Hall, and there he made the specific charge against the Toronto Globe, which he now repeated. He charged the Toronto Globe with being dishonestly and with method and design chloroformed public opinion in order that the Crow's Nest steel might be carried through. The position that he took up was that public men might be prepared to have the searchlight turned on their doings. The speaker then briefly recapitulated the story of the Crow's Nest steel, by which coal lands valued at two millions passed into the hands of the Globe. The Globe had made charges against him, and he publicly offered to give account to any man when they might nominate and to retire. In public life if they could find out discreditable thing on one discreditable man among the records. He made this offer, however, on condition that the Globe secured the same investigation at Ottawa. "I repeat my accusations against this man who does discredit to a great name, or at all events, does it credit, and I repeat the Hon. Mr. Oliver to use his influence to get the Globe to accede to my offer. The editor of the Globe has been exposed, not by Conservative, but by members of his own party, and Harbord for 1897 called on the denunciation of Mr. McInnis, who described the Rev. J. A. Macdonald, the editor of the Globe, as a crafty hypocrite. He was then stripped of his hypocrisy, a shackle to be shamed." Some comment had been made, the speaker said, because the Crow's Nest steel was one of old standing and had previously been an issue. It was only one, however, of the failings of the present administration, and on top of it they had built a tower of political integrity. He who accepted a public office was in a position of trust, and must be held responsible for the fulfillment of all his promises or pledges. Lifting from the table by his side the platform of 1893 drawn up by the Liberals in convention at Ottawa, the speaker asked how many of the Liberal planks, ten in number, therein contained, had been carried out. "I challenge anyone to point out a single plank that has been carried out, with the insignificant exception of the one relating to territorial boundaries. All the other planks have been forsaken and abandoned. I ask you to return to power men who will keep their promises." Passing on, the speaker dealt with the Yukon administration, and quoted the opinion of the London Times, which he described as the greatest paper in the world, and which had declared the Yukon administration disgraced the flag under which they lived. "And yet," said Mr. Roblin impressively to his audience, "Sir Wilfrid Laurier asks for four years more that this may be continued." The speaker then compared the five dollars per head of taxation in 1896 with the eleven dollars per head at the present time, and the thirty-eight millions a year in 1896, which Sir Richard Cartwright had declared was inequitable, and the ninety millions of this year and the hundred and forty six millions for next year. They could not, he said, set up a different code of life for a public man and a private citizen. He was not attacking the rank and file. He believed that they were thoroughly honest if you could get through the veneer. He knew that they would not approve of Borden's administration and the Crow's Nest deal. He knew that they would not approve of men being promoted on merit. He knew that they were not sympathetic with the financiers who had been cast out because they were found out. Mr. Roblin then proceeded to poke fun at the manner in which the present administration had stolen Mr. Borden's 1907 platform. He instanced free rural mail delivery, and declared that when Mr. Armstrong, of East Lambton moved the resolution in favor of rural mail delivery, every member of the Liberal party including Sir Wilfrid and Dr. McInnis voted against it. Mr. Roblin referred to some of the planks of the platform laid down by the Liberals in 1893, instancing an enlarged railway commission, reform of the Senate, free trade in England, and reciprocity and enlarged markets and declared that not one of these pledges had been kept in Germany, he declared, a Canadian farmer could not get within ten cents a bushel for his grain nor within three or four dollars a head for his bullocks of the price obtained by other countries. Was this enlarged market? he asked. The government weak credit for its prosperity, but he showed that there had been less prosperity in Canada than in any country in the world, with the exception of England, and he instanced the development of the Argentine and Mexico. He characterized as dishonesty the government's claim for credit, and said they had no more effect upon the fly on the wheel. They had wasted their opportunities and alienated the country's treasures. They had wasted country's resources. They had allowed Jim McGregor to make eight hundred thousand dollars out of the Roblin Irrigation Co., and then they declared it was justifiable because the people of Medicine Hat wished irrigation. Of course they wished irrigation, continued the speaker, but should not the government as business men have sold the land to them on understanding that, when they had obtained a reasonable profit of twenty or thirty or forty per cent, the land should be passed on to the settler at a fair price instead of allowing McGregor's take-off. If Theodore Burrows had been a senator or congressman of the United States he would have gone to the State prison if he had used his position to secure the public domain. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had demoralized the public life of Canada. "I have never made a charge," said Premier Roblin, as he held up the report of the Civil Service Commission, "like that made by the three Liberals who constituted the commission of inquiry into the Marine and Fisheries department. 'You can't get one of these reports. Why? Because the Laurier government are ashamed to let the people know what their own commissioners said about them. Why, a deputy minister under oath said that two hundred thousand dollars had practically been stolen from his department. The paltry Mr. Borden was restitution. Referring to A. W. Fraser, who had suddenly developed from a lobbyist into a parliamentary candidate, the speaker described how he had got for $1,500 a portion of a timber limit which he had sold for a hundred thousand dollars. If a minister of the Imperial parliament had done some of the things that he had done by some of the members of the present administration he would not only have lost his seat but would have been sent to jail. The only answer that the Liberal party had was to cry, slander, slander, and to talk of prosperity. They led the people up to the River of Jordan and let them look at the Promised Land. At Sir Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he would take care of the black sheep, but when he took Mr. Pugsley into the cabinet he threw out a black lamb and brought in a big black sheep. The Hon. Mr. Harbord, Premier of New Brunswick, at St. John's made a specific charge against Mr. Pugsley that he had used forty thousand dollars of the public money for his own purposes and that at the time that he had made the charge only a portion of it had been returned. He further charged that Mr. Pugsley had used sixteen thousand dollars of the public funds for three years and that after he had left office the sixteen thousand dollars was returned to the department in thirteen thousand dollar bills. Mr. Roblin also referred to the specific charges of graft made against Mr. Pugsley by Mr. Haven. Having briefly referred to the Hudson Bay Railway, which he declared was the only project now on the behalf of the farmer but on behalf of those who held timber limits and fishing rights who wanted transportation, the speaker referred to a particular case in which the Hon. Frank Oliver deserved censure. After describing the coal mining regulations by which only 320 acres can be taken up by one person, he explained the method by which Mr. Caldwell was allowed to put up one of the most infamous jobs ever perpetrated, and acquire 75,000 acres of coal lands against the law. This audience laughed heartily as the speaker read the list of servant girls, bell boys, and others in the Russell Hotel who had for a dollar allowed their name to be used. Mr. Caldwell had 215 of these applications. "I make," said Premier Roblin, "the direct charge that when the Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, knew their facts he refused to cancel the concessions, although the statute declares explicitly that they are against the law. If you are present at a meeting you can ask him to read the names of the applicants." Having referred to the North Atlantic Trading Co., with its registered office in Gresham, the speaker showed how Sir Wilfrid Laurier had used his vast majority to prevent concessions. In a peroration which rose to high flights of oratory he appealed to his hearers to vote according to their conscience, and wound up amid thunders of applause with an eloquent appeal to rally round Mr. Day and to protect the ballot box.

The meeting dispersed with cheers for Premier Roblin, E. W. Day and R. Li Borden.

AN AMAZING STATEMENT.

(Telegram.)

Rev. Dr. Chown wrote to R. L. Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, urging them to purify political life. In his letter of reply Sir Wilfrid Laurier makes the following amazing statement: "I believe, on the whole, the public life of Canada is as pure as in any country in the world and I am deeply anxious that everything be done to prevent any reproach being cast on it." There is only one human being on earth whom Sir Wilfrid Laurier could possibly deceive with such a statement, and that is himself. It is certainly what the Free Press describes it as being an indication of an "uncompromising attitude."

In what respect is the public life of Canada as pure as that in any country in the world and with what countries in the world does Sir Wilfrid Laurier propose that a comparison should be instituted?

Is Canada as pure as other countries in the administration of public revenues and the public domain? The findings of the Civil Service Commission, the Conciliation Board on the Intercolonial railway, the records of the Interior Department show that the public morality of other countries must indeed be as a paragon of evil if it is only as pure as that of Canada.

Perhaps it is in the propriety and morality of the individuals who compose the cabinet at Ottawa that Canada compares favorably with all other countries. If that is Sir Wilfrid's opinion, he must be painfully ignorant of the standards demanded by most other countries.

Again, it may the rigorous purity in elections which prevails in Canada, which excites Sir Wilfrid's complacency. Shades of West High, London, Prince Albert, Brandon and countless other places, and circumstances, not to omit Leach and his "Thin Red Line!"

It is not often, however, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is so sincere and candid as in his remark that he is deeply anxious that everything be done to prevent any reproach being cast upon Canadian public life. The inevitable double meaning of every word that Sir Wilfrid Laurier utters, has in this case lavaged him into accuracy.

He is not only anxious that every reproach, but he has himself done everything in his power to prevent reproach by means of a most powerful weapon, to wit, concealment.

To deceive is not the same thing as to receive reproach. Deceiving is to lead and the result of this is to approach itself is the result of this exposure. Sir Wilfrid Laurier must have had his tongue in his cheek when he uttered that grossly humorous letter to Dr. Chown.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—In the Supreme Court the case of May vs. Simpson, an appeal from the court of appeal for Manitoba, was heard. One of the best points about Zam-Buk is that it cures several kinds of pain. It has been used by more recent standing, Captain A. W. Strachan, R.E., at Gallipoli, (Ont.), a man who has served his country in India, China, Japan and Egypt, says.

Nobody has suffered greater agony than I have through rheumatism. My legs were so sore I could not walk, and at times the pain was almost too much for me to bear—especially while enduring the heat and fatigue of foreign duty.

I think I tried almost every remedy known in China, Japan and India, but without success. In hospital three weeks with bleeding pills, and thought I would come to give up. Then

"I have had to fall out on the march as I could not endure the pain any longer. Once I was picked up on the field for dead, and taken from the pile, was so great that I had fainted."

"An army officer told me that Zam-Buk's laying out a cured case, so I decided to give it a trial. From the first analgesic which this cerebral herb, I was relieved, but even after using one box I scarcely dared to hope it would cure me permanently. I had got so used to my suffering that I began to doubt if I would ever find time. I had used several boxes, to my great joy I was completely cured."

"Zam-Buk is worth its weight in gold. It has cured me and given me now over six months of perfect ease—something which I have never enjoyed before. If you are troubled with rheumatism, will send other sufferers to try Zam-Buk and prove its great healing virtues."

Zam-Buk is composed of the essence and extracts of healing herbs. It contains no animal fat or mineral poison. It never greases, rancid like other ointments, never stains, never clogs the pores of the skin. It heals cold sores, eczema, chapped hands, ulcers, badly poisoned wounds, scalp sores, open sores due to blood poisoning, itch. It heals lacerations, bruises and all skin eruptions and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co.
